Someday

By Amy Singer, Class of 2005

It feels that the world has been turned upside down,
And every face you see is marked with a frown.
From long lines and panic to being asked to stay home,
We sit on our sofas in disbelief all alone.
You see the frustration and anxiety mount,
And hope that your isolation efforts will count.
We are all thankful for essential employees,
And are inspired by the heroism of their stories.
The days turn to weeks but then hopefully soon,
We will be out and about in the light of the moon.
Until then, we will stay home and continue to pray,
For the world to be right side up again... someday.
