The label contains the text "Etonian" in a large, stylized, gothic-style font, followed by a small decorative flourish, and the year "1948" in a simpler, sans-serif font. The background of the cover is filled with intricate, repeating patterns of scrolls, leaves, and floral motifs, all embossed into the surface. The overall appearance is that of a classic, elegant book cover.

Old lamps signify the change of time, the wisdom of other years, the many avenues of enriching experience, the strength and power of concentrated effort, and the student's constant search for truth and understanding.

In our college generation we experienced a world at war and the coming of peace, the advent of the atomic bomb and the birth of the United Nations, the postwar uncertainties at home and want and despair abroad.

In the light of these swiftly changing times we interpret our college years. Upon new problems old lamps continue to shed their illuminating rays.

Dedication

Lively dark eyes . . . a quick manner of speaking, never wasting a word . . . neat and trim . . . almost fragile . . . that's Miss McCurdy.

We know her as she has assisted us in finding research materials and directed us to good reading in the library.

We know her as head of residence at Fairview Hall where she has shown a real interest in every girl.

We enjoy her wholehearted laughter. We appreciate her understanding and sensitivity to the feelings of others. Modest and unassuming she exemplifies sincere Christian living.

To Miss Isabel McCurdy, then, who has contributed so much to our life at Elizabethtown College, we gratefully dedicate this 1948 Etonian.

The Oil Lamp — indicating the change of time

New buildings along with old and familiar—North and South halls, the Business Education and Science buildings, the Gymnasium, Memorial and Fairview halls, and ivy-covered Alpha hall—provide friendly group living for a few of the two million seven hundred and fifty thousand men and women in American colleges this year.

The Lamp of Wisdom—reflecting the knowledge of other years

These men and women give to us the wisdom and understanding which have come to them through years of study and experience and so make our education meaningful in a troubled and changing world.

President Baugher

Untiringly President Baugher has worked to adjust the program of our college to the needs of the times.

With a fine sense of appreciation for the essential little things which make the wheels of the college organization run smoothly and a broad understanding of its larger demands, he has guided Elizabethtown College during these years of expansion.

Always conscious of the spirit that brought the college into existence, Dr. Baugher has labored to interpret her policy in the light of those ideals.

President Baugher serves this generation as educator, administrator and churchman.

Moving about the office with quietness and precision, Miss Wanner takes care of many of the details of his work.

Dean Bucher

Through the past four years Dean Bucher has thoughtfully guided us in the selection of courses which will best meet our needs in our chosen professions.

Especially heavy have been his duties in arranging college admissions and setting up curricula for our largest student body of diversified interests and background.

Dr. Bucher, a very busy man, finds time to sit down and discuss individual problems and to personalize the work of his office.

Elaborate and accurate records must be kept, student reports must be sent out, transcripts of credits must be issued, these and countless other demands upon the office of a dean are filled by the capable hands of Mrs. Miller and Miss Zimmerly as they assist Dean Bucher.

Treasurer Bucher

Another of the policy makers of our college, Mr. Bucher, brings a very positive business acumen into the field of his administration.

Well kept buildings and grounds, adequate supplies during a period of very real shortages, a smooth running plant—all indicate the vision and foresight of this man.

One of the finest evidences of a well ordered business administration is the lack of attention it draws to itself, just such an administration is Mr. Bucher's.

An exactness with accounts and prompt as well as courteous telephone and information service tell us that Miss Schock and Miss Hollinger fit into the pattern of our college business office.

Dean Hackman

Personal counselling, hearing the perplexing problems of youth, helping students make adjustments, combining a social and religious life with school work, advising many groups—these are only a few of the duties of our deans.

Two who are ever busy, yet ever willing to give more of their time for the increasing betterment of college living.

Their suggestions and leadership help make college activities interesting and worthwhile.

Friendly, fair, open-minded—they have a sincere concern and interest for each individual and E-town students have found in them understanding and intelligent counsellors.

Dean Espenshade

Religion

In chapel, class room, and personal conference our teachers of religion and our pastor serve.

As they teach the story of God's revelation to mankind through the scriptures they lead us to a fuller understanding of Christian ideals. They interpret Christianity as a vital and necessary force in world affairs and give us inspiration for more thoughtful Christian living.

The devotion of Miss Martin, the quick perception and insight of Rev. Zuck, the enthusiasm and stability of Professor Ebersole help to make the religious program of our college meet our individual and group needs.

Education

Preparing students to take their places in the teaching profession, Dr. Bucher and Professor Hoover, through cooperation and diligence, have steadily improved and strengthened the field of education at Elizabethtown College.

Library

Lovers of books—fascinated by book lore—Miss McCurdy and Mrs. Stambaugh have worked to make the library a place of interest for all. Kindness and patience have made students feel at ease here and encouraged us to seek their advice in literary matters.

Language

Cooperating in teaching the literature, language and culture of different peoples are Dr. Schlosser, Miss Nelson, Mrs. Herr, and Dr. and Mrs. Neuman.

Their store of knowledge, wide experience and mastery of their subjects have been a stimulation to students. Their high ideals and scholarly achievement are a constant inspiration to their classes. Genuine friendliness and mutual respect between student and teacher characterize the language department.

Science and

Mathematics

Not only have we learned something of the meaning of the scientific method and mathematical exactness but we have also felt a deep understanding of human nature and of the problems of our group among these men and women. Dr. Charles Apgar's subtle humor and Dr. Stambaugh's apt, down to earth illustrations are among the unforgettables of our college experiences.

Each in his own right, Dr. Stambaugh, Dr. Weaver, the Drs. Apgar, Professors Kauffman, Espenshade, and Heilman, has shown us that success in any endeavor depends as much upon an appreciation for our fellowmen as upon the knowledge of biological structure and functions, careful chemical analyses, or insight into higher mathematics.

Art and Music

Choir and orchestra, music appreciation, voice and piano, painting and art appreciation, all provide opportunity for the development of talent and of the ability to interpret and enjoy the best in music and art.

To their teaching Professor and Mrs. Meyer, Mr. Book, and Mr. Herr bring a wealth of experience, creative imagination, and enthusiasm.

Business

Thoughtfully and with the precision of the business world Professor Haubert, Mrs. Breitigan, Attorney Wenger, and Dr. Eshleman direct an increasingly large percentage of Elizabethtown students in their study of business subjects.

In a day when high standards of efficiency and a new concept of social responsibility in business relationships are absolutely essential they educate to meet those needs.

Social Science

As our world grows smaller our relationships with our fellowmen call for greater appreciation of their backgrounds and culture and broader knowledge of psychological and sociological principles.

Professor Kilhefner, with forthrightness and clarity, has introduced us to psychological and sociological findings; Professor Hellerich has brought a stimulating enthusiasm and an almost incredible knowledge of historical fact and of political intricacies into the classroom. Both have helped us build patterns of appreciation and understanding as they have related these studies to contemporary living.

Coach Herr has guided the physical education program and set the pace for the sportsmanship and spirit of cooperation essential to the building of fine athletic teams.

The Torch—lighting the many avenues of activity

A satisfying college experience must develop the whole person in each of us and so we seek expression in social living, in dramatics, in journalism, in recreation, in music, in business study, in student government, in the study of social problems and in religion—each according to his interests and abilities.

Student Senate

Not a group of stately senators, nor a fraternity of would be lawyers, but a group of students interested in the problems and treatment of students. The present senate faced the question of student government for an expanding program and determined budgets early in the season. Looking toward the coming year the senate sent members to a student conference on college government at Penn State. The senate meanwhile moves ever closer to a true representation of the student body.

Student Christian Movement

The largest organization on campus, the S. C. M. unites the Christian organizations in an effort to further the work of Christ. The S. C. M. has been very active, including leadership in such projects as bringing a German student to our college.

Etonian

To capture the spirit of the school and present it in the best literary way in which we are able—this is the duty and task of the yearbook staff. To write for the faculty, students, alumni, and for any prospective reader is a difficult assignment but it is ours. It is for you to criticize but we could only work.

Etownian

If the lights of the nation's press are shining in America today then the college papers are making those lights burn a little brighter. In the process of writing our own paper we work and we have fun.

Only a small paper gives its creators such a feeling of satisfaction in success, and such a feeling of frustration in failure. For in the "make up" of a college journal—the writing, the trip to the printer, the editing, the proofreading—all are within our scope and ours to improve. And we will, for it gets easier as we go, and more exciting.

C o m e r c i a n t e s

For better understanding of current business problems and just for good times, business students of high scholastic standing work and play together.

This year three outstanding business men, I. Wayne Keller, Assistant Comptroller of Armstrong Cork Company, L. A. Edwards, Branch Manager of Burroughs Machine Company, and H. L. Bowman, Sales Representative of Appleby Brothers and Whittaker, addressed the Comerciantes. The club visited Hershey Chocolate Company's plant and offices and there were swimming parties, bowling parties and doggie roasts.

Social Science Club

With a world as full of post-war problems as ours the social science club can see its work cut out for it. We learn by doing and the students who take part in the Model United Nations and the intercollegiate conference on government will take a practical experience into local politics.

Even if the club does not find a formula for Peace, if they discover the path and take a step in that direction . . . can we say they have failed?

Music

Music can take many forms and moods with just as many results. At Elizabethtown College music is vital to daily living—whether it be expressed in a hymn, classic piece, or swing number—whether it be voiced in the chapel, in the social hall or in a dormitory room—whether it helps the student in appreciating God, helps him relax or merely takes his mind off present problems. Yes, whatever be its function, the music created by the choir, orchestra, quartette, Christmas carolers, or individual students is as much a part of college life here as the campus itself.

Debating

"Resolved that a Federal World Government should be established" has been the question for debate by our teams meeting St. Joseph, Gettysburg, Western Maryland, Lebanon Valley, Shippensburg State Teachers and Juniata colleges in eleven official debates.

Cheerleading Athletic Association

The Athletic Association through its cheerleading squad and its sponsorship of intra-mural games has helped create enthusiasm for our entire sports program and has encouraged wider participation.

Sock and Buskin

The show must go on . . . it must go on in our theaters, among little theater groups, and in our colleges. In our college the tradition of drama is carried on by Sock and Buskin.

The trip to see a big theater play, the problems of choosing and casting, the constant practice, the worry of the director . . . all for better acting. And then . . . curtain time.

For some of us it has been curtain time in Letters to Lucerne . . . Miss Lulu Bett . . . Family Portrait . . . Our Hearts Were Young and Gay.

SIGMA KAPPA XI

Although no member of the science club is experimenting with atomic energy, the group does try to keep up with scientific advancement.

Never too scientific to have fun . . . among the activities that bring the most joy is the annual trip to the seashore. How many and how big are the fish they catch? Ask them—you know a fisherman never stretches a point.

Freshman Registration

The long lines, numerous forms and complex schedules were new to some, to others it brought back memories of mail call, of chow lines . . . for all it was the beginning of a college career. This was the day when the freshmen officially became a part of our college.

Faculty Reception

President and Mrs. Baugher and Dean and Mrs. Bucher greeting the students, a caterer serving chicken salad, groups of students displaying their best social manners, everyone dressed up . . . These were scenes as Freshmen met the faculty formally at their first faculty reception and the Seniors at their last.

Halloween

One time in the year when we could be what we really are not and get away with it . . . old ladies and men, little boys and girls, Southern belle or Mexican gentleman . . . Father Time and the Infant Year . . . Johnny Buch as a buxom, frolicsome lass, Kep's horse teeth, Jesse Brown as a walking General Electric demonstration . . . the Halloween party coming early in the school year broke down a lot of restraints and helped us learn to know each other better.

Student Conference

Thanksgiving vacation for some of us was spent in entertaining the national conference of the Brethren Student Christian Movement.

We enjoyed planning for the conference and being host to 144 students from all the Brethren colleges. Participation in seminar discussions and hearing men like Kermit Eby, director of education and research for C.I.O. filled us with a new sense of our responsibility in politics and labor relations.

Making the conference an especially enriching experience for us was the fellowship as we met informally in Alpha living room at the close of each busy day.

Christmas

Christmas is a time of joy, of rejoicing, of singing and of prayer. Our banquet is in this spirit of Christmas and marks the beginning of the Yuletide vacation. The student body is brought into a feeling of closeness very appropriate for the birthday of our Christ. A last song, a final wish of good cheer, and we're off for a merry Christmas.

The carolers are as traditional as the blue and grey for never does a Christmas go by without them. The annual tour of singing students starts at Alpha hall and moves through the town voicing the spirit of Christmas and giving entertainment to the people of our community.

Valentine Party

Friday the 13th and an icy night . . . but none the less a gala night . . . a dressup party when ladies looked their loveliest . . . violin and accordion music . . . Alpha living room transformed for the occasion . . . fun in selecting the Queen of Hearts . . . suspense until she chose her King . . . Kathleen and Bob were perfect . . . then dainty pink sandwiches, cinnamon hearts and punch . . . the Valentine party was one of our best.

Leap Year

Shades of Sadie Hawkins, it's every man for himself. The time has come for the girls to take the initiative and the boys don't seem to mind at all. Anna Kepner as a Gibson Girl and mistress of ceremonies was killing. The party was fun but you know a thing like that could change our whole social system.

May Day

The first May Day celebration in the history of the college and how could it be anything but a success. Inauguration of student officers, proclaiming a campus queen, and all the gayety and color of a spring festival.

The Hurricane Lamp — signifying strength and power

Intercollegiate and intramural sports—basketball, baseball, tennis, and soccer—provide not only fun and recreation but also insure physical fitness and opportunities for teamwork for all who participate.

1947 SOCCER SUMMARY

Soccer, the weaker sister of our sports program, returned to do battle last Fall thereby completing our first full athletic schedule since the War. With every hill booter registered as an underclassman, the team lacked experience. The players, however, loved the game and more than compensated with enthusiasm and drive. Most of the games were played under conditions that made players look like jesters and goalies appear as jugglers.

Since few of the colleges in this area included soccer in their sports program, our schedule was limited. Members of the team include: Frank Keath, Curt Bucher, Don Haverstick, John Lichty, Dave Snavely, Hen Gingrich, Jim Snavely, Sam Meyer, John Berger, Ken Gingrich, Don Myers, Armon Snowden, Don Krebs, Stan Kettering, Don Hivner, Tony Burriesci, Dick Hoopes and Harry Beyer.

Score Results:

Bloomsburg 3	Blue Jays 0
Lock Haven 2	Blue Jays 0
Bloomsburg 0	Blue Jays 3

Captain Frank Zink, Harold Fellenbaum, Ken Hetrick, Ed Fitzkee, Jim Roberts, also Bob Zink and Hen Miller (not pictured) will agree that their toughest assignment was getting assembled in one place. When they DID get together, they formed a near unbeatable combination. Led by the "tennis twins" Frank and Bob Zink, the team amassed a total of 68 match wins against 13 losses during the nine game schedule.
